- show the ability to take on a tech lead position;
- create modular and scalable technical designs;
- write well structured code and code frameworks;
- display expertise in mobile game development;
- provide accurate time estimates to the product owner and producer;
- pro-actively initiate efforts to implement innovative ideas, technical tools and workflows;
- open to team member feedback; make the effort to implement improvements and ideas;
- excellent troubleshooting skills, created by team-members or yourself;
- excellent C# or C++ skills;
- deliver quality, on-time each sprint, getting the game to a shippable state;
- has shipped at least 2 commercial titles; 3+ years industry experience;

Plus:

- strong math skills (logic, linear algebra, geometry, statistics and probability, etc.);
- experience with Unity, especially editor tools, shaders and profiling;
- experience with XCode and Objective-C programming;
- experience with Java programming, specifically for Android devices;
- experience with the release process including working on systems related to localization and social media
